

Using root words to make new words - answers

If you added the right prefixes, the paragraph will look like this:

I am always worried my writing will disappear from the computer screen. If that keeps happening I will have to replace the computer but I will be very unhappy if I have to do that. As a precaution I will save all my work on a memory stick.

If you added the right suffixes, the paragraph will look like this:

I am learning to write formal letters. It is preferable to begin the letter with a greeting. If the letter is to someone I don't know, I end it 'Yours faithfully.' If the letter is to someone I know, I end it 'Yours sincerely'.

If you added the right prefixes and suffixes, the paragraph will look like this (yours might look a bit different):

This is a sad story. I should have mistrusted/distrusted my boyfriend from the very start. Just before we were to be married I discovered he had been unfaithful. He had a relationship with another woman that predated ours. His mobile phone was his undoing. I uncovered texts from her. It was a very uncomfortable time all round when I returned his ring. It was all very distressing but I've recovered now.
