

The best job in the world - Spotting verb-subject agreement – answers

Verbs and subjects must agree! The corrected verb forms are in bold below:

IN THE NEWS

The best job in the world?

Some jobs are very demanding, but someone has to do them. Recently Partnum & Brown was looking for a new chocolate buyer. The company was advertising a salary of £35,000 a year.

The successful applicant had to travel the world to find the best chocolate makers. He or she would taste as much chocolate as possible, and then decide which was the best for their customers. They expected top quality for the world renowned Food Hall.

The company was expecting a lot of applications for the job. They were looking for someone who worked hard, enjoyed food, had a keen eye for packaging and was able to control a budget. They also wanted someone who was enthusiastic, energetic and loved chocolate!

* = 'was', not were, looking because Partnum & Brown is one company.