The pandemic was a moment in time
And for you, you act like it was fine
To lock yourself away and say that it was okay
To spend all day in a digital world and just play

Forgetting there's an entire world right outside
In nature and reality
In friendships, adventures and similarities
There's laughter, there's tears
There's overcoming your fears
There's adventures to be had
There's memories to be made
There's a whole universe waiting for you to pave

Locking yourself away feeding your fears
Is like giving nourishment to your tears

Every difficult decision starts with a first step
But do you owe it to yourself to take that first step?
Walk a different path
Start a new adventure.
